Subject: 8 Mile .485oz OFFER 10 May 2012

Hi Folk

Australian Opal Mines Mining 8 Mile Field

About 12 or 15 years ago my son Kent became an opal miner, he arrived on the field with a 40 tonne Komatsu Excavator on the top of a low loader, he led the equipment into town in a beautiful Toyota Landcruiser pickup truck. He was only a young lad and was the envy of many miners in the town. Kent went for 3 years. In his third year he found a lot of opal on the 8 Mile Field decided that he would give it another year. The fourth year was a great one because he found another big parcel. The fifth year we prefer not to talk about.

Kent was lucky in that his father was an opal dealer and he used to go to America each year selling opals for his Dad calling on our clients, many of you met him with his lovely sister Kirsty. During those trips Kent was able to offer his rough opal to my clients.

Recently we found a stone that looked promising from the outside, we ground off the top and from the picture below you can see what Kent found. It is a magnificent piece it's from the 8 Mile Field it weighs .485oz which is 15.08 grams. The stone is 59mm x 23mm and is 7mm thick. One man that will be receiving this Offer is a knapper, in fact we have a number of knappers but I know of one bloke that will be looking at this very closely to see whether he thinks he can knap a beautiful arrowhead out of it. Others of you will be looking at it and seeing that you can make a ring, matching earrings and even a pendant as well from the same stone. Others of you will think of just shaping it a little and taking that border off it and making the most magnificent pendant. My wife wears a pendant similar to this. The pattern is fantastic it is just choc full of colours. The lines running through the stone add to the character of it. It is a bargain and I'll tell you why, it is only $1,940US now when we priced this opal the American dollar was worth a lot more and $1,940 would have fetched us $2,180 today $1,940US doesn't even fetch us $1,940AU so you are buying a stone which was originally priced at $3,180 for only $1,940. Have you have got that worked out? There is only one stone so it's first in best dressed as usual.

Regards

Murray
