Subject: 8 Mile & Loose Bead OFFER 5 Jun 2012

Hi Folk

Once again we are looking at inexpensive 8 Mile opal. The Baby Chips at $3/oz I was lucky that my son even bothered to pick them up, it's a bit beneath the miners' dignity to do that but of course most of it came off in the tumbler.

We have some more 8 Mile Better Mine Run at only $6/oz if you would like some.

The amber chips and small stones are quite unusual for this area, they'll go well in vials as will the beautiful brilliant green blue with some red chips and small stones.

I have no doubt beginners would be very happy with the ounce of small stones for only $30 & $60 as will the more proficient cutters who will quickly snap up the $100, $150 and $200/oz.

The very large stone for $240 is a beauty.

If you want to cut matching stones in red and green pinfire this one is for you.

Last but not least is the Mintubi on Sandstone, you are not going to cut huge amounts of bright opal out of this but as you can see there is some very brilliant opal in there that can be polished and left on the sandstone as specimens. Be quick for this one.

Regards

Murray

We have included a number of beautiful loose focal beads in our Offer today, all are all drilled and ready to be worn. Each bead has been carefully selected from hundreds and hundreds of beads because these are all either gem or wonderfully bright and gorgeous in their own way. They would without a doubt be the best selection of individual focal beads that we have ever offered.

All the females in Murray's family have one of these magnificent gem beads below. We have included a few more for you to select from which have been cut from the same rough material as Kirsty's. If you love looking like a million dollars you shouldn't miss out but secure one too before they are all sold. These are irreplaceable and each bead are one of a kind.

If you prefer smaller focal beads we have two beautiful 10.5mm round Boulder beads and two small Andamooka beads which are also very very bright, fantastic value and have been very popular in the past.

Kirsty's bead

Also included in today's Offer are some exquisitely handcrafted opal carvings. Several have been drilled and others can be either set or left as is. We have many many more carvings which start from as little as $30 upwards, we have something to suit every budget. I just love the strikingly beautiful black opal frog from Lightning Ridge. I haven't seen any carved frog as nice as this one before. It will just about glow and look terrific in any office or room of the house, a true talking piece.

We hope you enjoy our Offer and can't wait to hear from you.

Regards

Heather
