Subject: Inexpensive Material OFFER 13 Apr 2012

Folk

Today we send you an Offer of comparatively inexpensive material. We are offering this inexpensive material at the express wishes of our rockhounding gem club, amateur cutters request. We do have much more expensive material but we find for the above market and in this economic climate the inexpensive material is far more saleable.

Just a couple of things I really like. The first being the two Coober Pedy patch on sandstone specimens $64. These are huge, most unusual and I don't think you'd have a chance as a collector to get them anywhere else. We would be prepared to split the two.

The rectangular Andamooka Matrix Opal for only $95 is spectacular. It is 18mm x 13mm and a bargain, it would make a great man's ring.

The 191.89cts of Matrix opal Special for only $767.56 is also a bargain. If however $700 odd is too much we can make you a smaller parcel.

The Lambina Dark Base Gem Bar for only $94.35 is really beautiful, the bar goes right through the stone and you'll get quite a large opal out of it, there is also a secondary smaller bar in the top of the stone so you can cut two stones from this piece.

For those of who you want something absolutely different and very colourful the 4.5oz of Andamooka Untreated Matrix for $448 is also a bargain. We would be prepared to split those two at $200/oz.

The Andamooka 2.55oz for only $90 has nice colour on both sides and could be knapped into an arrowhead or two. This is most unusual material and to get 2.55oz for only $90 is most unusual, it has been sliced and polished so it could be good for a collector as is.

All these things are beautiful but I particularly like for only $62 the Andamooka Painted Lady. It has beautiful blues with green along the bottom and lots of colour over an area of approximately 2.5" x 2" for only $62.

Regards

Murray
