Hi Folk

Whilst looking in my garage the other day I came across a couple of 5 gallon drums with some huge grey potch in them. Here are pictures of three pieces, the smallest weighs an ounce, the middle sized stone weighs 4.3oz and the large one 9oz. People use potch for many things, they carve, use them for backing of doublets & triplets, make beads etc. Black potch is selling at $10/oz, regular potch at $5/oz and I am going to sell this material for one month at only $3/oz so if you would like some let us know. Please stipulate the size you prefer and I'll select the potch as close to your request as possible.

This potch is from Lambina just imagine the disappointment when the guy hit the run and it was all potch, the same fellow later hit good opal in large pieces but not as large as this. I paid him $18,000 for one 3oz stone. Had this potch all been precious opal he would have had over $2m. Don't worry he's not broke but now the Aborigines have closed Lambina, he will never be able to mine there again and this potch will no longer be available to anyone once I have sold it.

Kind regards

Murray Willis
